BERLIN, Dec. 18.—A wave of bitterness against Uruguay as a result of the loss of the Admiral Graf Spee swept Germany today with revelation that the Reich government has lodged a stern protest with the Montevideo government.

The protest termed the refusal of the Uruguayan government to grant the pocket battleship "time to restore its seaworthiness" a "flagrant violation of international law."

The Graf Spee was sunk outside Montevideo harbor last night after Uruguay insisted that it either leave the port or be interned for duration of the war.

Critics Uruguayan
Today Germany criticized Uruguay for allegedly giving in to British pressure to force the Graf Spee to leave the harbor.

Responsible quarters declared the German protest will not close the matter and added:

New Castle Shown As Superior Market

(Special To The News)

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—How prosperous a city is New Castle? How does it compare with other cities? How much money is earned and spent there each year?

The answers to these questions, valuable to merchants and advertisers, are contained in the most comprehensive study of the subject ever made, recently completed by the Department of Commerce, and covering every town in the United States larger than 2,500 population.

New Castle is shown to be an above-average community. It accounts for .0471 percent of the nation's business with a population of only .0396 percent of the total. It supports 778 retail establishments, which do an annual business of $15,620,000.

The yearly sales volume in the city is $321 for each resident. This figure, for the entire country, is $270.

New Castle's fine consumer purchasing power is indicated by figures showing that electric meters in service number 91 for each 100 families, whereas the national average is 67 per 100, and showing the circulation of twelve national magazines, which account for 126 subscriptions per 100 families compared with 94 per 100 elsewhere.

Other figures bearing out this purchasing power relate to the sales of automobiles, electric refrigerators, and radios, and the use of telephones.

Pan-American Nations Plan To Present Protest

Britain And Germany To Get Protest On Violation

EXPECT ALL NATIONS

Scuttling Of Graf Spee Does
Not Affect Plan For Pan-
American Action

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Spared

another naval battle within their neutrality zone by the scuttling of the S.S. Graf Von Spee, the 21

Western Hemisphere republics resumed consultations today on a joint diplomatic protest to Great Britain and Germany for bringing their war to the shores of Uruguay.

State department officials emphasized that as far as the United States government is concerned, the destruction of the pocket battleship

by her Nazi personnel does not close the book on projected diplomatic action by the Pan-American nations.

Plan For Rebuke

During the past 48 hours, the United States has been extremely active in attempting to muster unanimous support among Latin-

American nations for a stern rebuke to England and Germany.

Officials in Washington frankly concede that if nothing is done by the 21 governments, the recently-adopted Panama neutrality declaration might well be relegated to the diplomatic junk-heap.

Just what will be done by the Pan-American nations has not been decided, but in the opinion of United States officials, the British-German naval incident off the coast of Uruguay constitutes a definite disregard of the Panama declaration by European powers.

The destruction of the Graf Von

Spee is considered by state department officials as simply an added

phase of the affair now being discussed by the American republicans.

Consultations Continue

Over the week-end, the state department was in communication with all the Latin-American capitais. These consultations will continue today.

SANTA CLAUS FOREVER

INDISSOLUBLE with Christmas is the spirit and presence of Saint Nicholas—Santa Claus—the symbol of happiness, of the outpouring of generous hearts, a translation into actuality of the promises made to mankind at the birth in Bethlehem. Santa Claus is not merely a person of round and ruddy face, framed in snow-white whiskers, his form gaily bedecked in crimson and silver, a light-hearted old gentleman with a pack on his back filled with toys for little children. He is the spirit of an entire season.

The Christmas season is the time of youth, happiness and gaiety, the time of children, and for the memories of childhood which lie within all human hearts. It commemorates the coming of a child and of the greatest gift of the world. Inevitably it is dedicated to children and those who think the clean, sweet, unselfish thoughts of trustful youth.

Santa is no nebulous dream. He is real and living, showing from the happy faces of those who believe in Christmas in its truest sense, and living and working in the hearts of those to whom giving is a joy, almost a selfish gratification, because they themselves derive from it such warm pleasure.

Pitiful, indeed, are those sour cynics who see in Christmas only its commercial aspects.

REAL STUDY IN RELATIVITY

A grand study in relativity for the layman is afforded by the new issue of "Who's Who," a British publication, the 1940 edition of which is just off the press. He must, for example, disabuse his mind of the conviction that Herr Hitler is responsible for all of the long series of aggressions that resulted in the war. Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop takes responsibility, in the sketch he himself prepared, for the acquisition of Austria, the Sudetenland, Bohemia and Moravia and even little Mencl.

That's the kind of him. And he is so prominent that just "Berlin" will get him when the mails are moving through the blockade. Herr Hitler, whose sketch is shorter, evidently regards himself as sufficiently obscure to need street and number. Propaganda Minister Goebbels is not in the book, and doesn't have to be, because almost every day he puts himself on the front page.

Signor Mussolini and his son-in-law, Foreign Minister Ciano, didn't change their sketches, which they proudly have printed in their native Italian. Thereby they escaped any mention of their seizure last Good Friday of the little state of Albania. They probably will not relish seeing Hail Selassie credited as Emperor of Ethiopia and will wonder why General Franco does not show up as head of a third Fascist state on the borders of France.

As usual, America finds itself well represented in the sketches of the tabulation of the great of earth. The longest sketch in the whole book is that of Nicholas Murray Butler. It is longer than the combined sketches of Mussolini, Hitler, Prime Minister Chamberlain and President Roosevelt, thereby running true to form.

That is far from indicating, however, that a prophet is without honor save in his own country. In the American "Who's Who" the Butler sketch is considerably longer than the combined sketches of President Roosevelt and former President Hoover. And that's something. No wonder some of the irreverent Columbia undergraduates on Morningside Heights refer to their prey as "Nicholas Miraculous."

CUT DOWN DECEMBER TOLL

Stop the Christmas carnage!
The National Safety Council made the appeal today to the drivers and pedestrians of the country in an effort to cut down the heavy December traffic toll.

Each year, the Council pointed out, the Christmas spirit of "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men" undergoes an ironic transformation. It is converted by the very geniality and excitement of the holiday season into suffering and sorrow through wholesale slaughter on the streets and highways.

The nation-wide campaign being conducted by the Council and participated in by 30 other national organizations has a two-fold significance this year.

Not only is it aimed at the blight on Christmas happiness, but it is a last-ditch fight to prevent traffic fatalities this year from exceeding last year's total.

Traffic deaths this year are about even with 1938. The margin of difference is so slight that December will tell the story—whether the nation will reduce its traffic toll for the second consecutive year, or whether part of last year's gain will be lost.

Last year 3,470 persons died in December traffic mishaps. Experience shows that the December death rate on a mileage basis is one-third higher than the average for all months. The month when joy and happiness should reign untouched by tragedy is more than one and a half times as hazardous as the safest month—June.

Why the Yuletide massacre?
The Council blames bad weather, more hours of darkness and the Christmas holiday rush.

To thwart these traffic bugaboos, the Council is taking its campaign straight to the governors, motor vehicle administrators and highway patrol chiefs of all states . . . to the mayors and police chiefs of all cities over 10,000 population . . . to the thousands of safety council officials and safety contact men. In addition, the campaign is being laid at the door of every man and woman in America, with a personal appeal to drive and walk safely this month.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

WHAT THE PRINCIPAL EXPECTS

When I was a boy in the country school, we used to read from a book, the name of which I have forgotten. "The Supposed Speech of John Adams." With apologies to the author of that speech, let me presume to write a supposed speech of a wise elementary school principal.

"Dear Parents: We at school are trying to do our best to help your children grow as they should, physically, mentally and morally. You are teachers, too, even though you may not think you are. We wish your teachers at home would train your children, as well as you are able, to depend upon themselves, and to take responsibility. Please let them wash their own dirty hands, necks and faces, and find their own things. Merely inspect and observe them. Let them know, without doubt, what the consequences will be if they are a minute late in leaving home, or are not clean enough to pass inspection."

Work Out Program

"We wish you would work out the program so that your children would leave home each morning in a hopeful, happy frame of mind; that they would return each evening to a home where they will be welcomed heartily and will look forward to a happy dinner hour with the family."

"We wish you would see to it that your children go to bed at a reasonably early hour, sending themselves to bed by a clock and not by a ticking tongue; that never before a school day will they be allowed to go away from home at night; that as soon as they receive home study assignments, you would see to it that each evening each child goes to his work at a regular place that is free from interruption. When you help your child with his lessons, walk away and go to bed the moment you find, because of irritation, you are breathing irregular or your voice is rising. You are not then fit to be in his presence."

"When the children bring home papers that are graded high, express appreciation, and when bad ones come, say nothing. Please behave in like manner when the report cards come home. Never, never compare the children in behavior or school achievement, or hold one child up as a model for another."

"When you come to school to see me, please talk only of the child's good things in his presence. If you must discuss his faults with me, please do so in his absence. Come to school more often when everything is going well. Please tell us of the things at school which you like, and tell the teacher when you are pleased with her. Also, compliment your children for the good things that they do; celebrate successes."

"Those of you who have children too young for school, begin now to teach them reasonable restraints and set yourself to learning how to annoy them less and to help them keep alive their zeal to learn and to express themselves."

Solving Parent Problems

Q. You often urge the father of the baby and young child to help the mother in this child's care. Don't some mothers make slaves out of the docile husband?

A. An occasional one does. But for one that does, a hundred mothers are themselves the slaves, perhaps.

BACK TO SANTA

It's getting on to Christmas!
You can read it in her eye.
The windows now are full of things
She's wishing she could buy.
And since we have a grandson—
The best of earthly joys—
We've gone back to Santa
And a stocking full of toys.

We've had a dozen Yuletides
That were bright with Christmas cheer.
They were grownup celebrations,
Without Santa, sleigh or deer.
But we're going back to laughter
And belief and childish glee;
Back to horns and drums and skinnings
And the old-time Christmas tree.

It's getting on to Christmas!
You can read it in her eye.
There's a hundred things in toyland
That she's wishing she could buy.
We are done with grumpy wisdom
And his cold, prosaic joys;
We are going back to Santa
And the magic he employs.

REAL BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

I know a woman who is passionately fond of bridge, but who is no longer invited to any of the bridge parties of her neighbors or former friends. After taking a few private lessons she assumed superiority over all the others in her crowd. She tortured her partners to death with such nagging as "you hadn't a legitimate bid... no wonder you went down." Soon she assumed the airs of a teacher and analyzed the plays of everyone at each table. This led to repeated arguments, until at last she had to be dropped as a nuisance. Sweden And Norway See Danger
Believed Next In Russian Path
Hitler Also Realizes Situation

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Rumors are current that Fuehrer Hitler would like to make peace but no body surmises that Comrade Stalin thinks of any let-up in His campaign.

It's understandable that Adolf realizes he's in a position of plenty of danger. If the Allies can't beat the Germans in the field, at least it's pretty certain that they can starve the latter out in the long run. Furthermore, there are multiplying stories of disaffection toward the Nazi boss among his home folk. He must know, too, that the areas he has gobbled by conquest or diplomatic maneuvering will turn ugly again the minute that luck begins to set in against him. It also is obvious that he is desperately afraid of Russia. Naturally he'd like to come to terms with the Allies. Of course, he'd want them to be HIS terms. Still cramped as he is, he might be willing to make some concessions—or to promise them, anyway.

Joe Stalin is about as independently situated as the traditional hog on ice. He has no immediate neighbors that are strong enough to trouble him for long. Hitler, having overplayed his hand, can't menace him seriously for the present even by flopping to the Allies' side. That's him, but can't get at him except through the Balkans and the Balkan powers are feeble. They and Italy plus Turkey couldn't attack the Soviets formidably. They might resist Joe a little but just now his activities aren't pointed in their direction. He can afford to leave them until later and it's a safe bet that they won't START anything voluntarily. Japan's a potential threat, but only to the eastward, and Josef's aggressions now are toward the opposite end of the compass.

What Joe obviously is after is to grab northern Scandinavia. In that corner of the world the little Scandinavians have got to do their own fighting and it's a safe bet that they won't START anything voluntarily. Japan's a potential threat, but only to the eastward, and Josef's aggressions now are toward the opposite end of the compass.

Apparently Dictator Stalin's people are very solidly behind him. It seems strange, considering how bad his regime is. Nevertheless, it's to be remembered that the regime which preceded him, under the czars was about equally awful. The Russians probably are accustomed to that kind of thing—take it as a matter of course and don't pay much attention to it.

Incidentally, foreign military experts say that Russia's army, navy and aviation corps are the limit as to inefficiency—no discipline, no equipment, no anything worth having. All the same, they're numerically approximately 80 times the strength of Finland's. That's pretty disproportionate.

Having attended to Finland, the assumption is that Comrade Stalin (Continued On Page Five)

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

ABOUT A BOOK
No other book in modern American history has paralleled "Magnificent Obsession" in winning its way unaided to the heart of the world. Some years ago Lloyd C. Douglas told me how he had written the book out of the travail of his own soul, in an effort to find a helpful philosophical answer to problems caused by fundamental misunderstanding. He sent the book to Harper's, which previously had published his ethical essays, and it was rejected: "Cut out the romance and we'll publish it as ethics." He then sent it to Doubleday Doran and the reply was: "Cut out the ethics and we'll publish it as a romance. Instead, Mr. Douglas, send it to a friend who operated a small publishing house specializing in religious pamphlets. It had never published a novel and had no means of distributing a novel. But in 1929 brought out the book.

The great book publishers of America have the most cock-eyed theory in the world. All the other industrialists advertise their product first, knowing that the busy public must have its attention called to anything new. Book publishers on the other hand, put one little announcement in, two or three key cities over the country and then sit back and wait. They're like the fellow who wagered that a certain Negro could eat all of a forty-pound watermelon because he just saw him fasten it. He took leave ahead of the pack during its first month on the market they will leap on it and ride it, believing it has a good chance to be a winner.

"Magnificent Obsession" had been out more than a year before it became a best seller. Then it became a fixed star, remaining on the best-seller list while many brilliant shooting stars came and went.

It was the psychology and philosophy of Dr. Wayne Hudson which made millions of readers in England and America find help and strength in "Magnificent Obsession" and letters poured in on the publishers from people who wished to know Dr. Hudson's address. They wished to ask him questions about their problems. Of course, Dr. Hudson was a mythical character who sprang full-fledged from the Jovian brow of Dr. Douglas, and his philosophy was Dr. Douglas' philosophy. But the demand was so great that Dr. Douglas had to write another book, "Dr. Hudson's Secret Journal," expanding the philosophy which made "Magnificent Obsession" successful. The new book has just come out. It may help many a bewildered soul find anchorage, and can a book do any greater thing than that?

WITH Mr. Davies, the self-interest of his declaration is obvious. First sent to Moscow and now Ambassador to Belgium, Mr. Davies' ambitions have been widely publicized. No secret has been made that neither Moscow nor Brussels satisfied the aspirations of the Davies family. What it wanted was either London or Paris, and Brussels was regarded as a stopping place before going on to higher things. His resignation to stay in Washington as an "adviser to the President on foreign affairs" does not chance that situation nor deceive anyone. That is the bunk.

IN ANY EVENT, the Davies declaration is easier to accept for than that of Mr. Kennedy, though neither is consistent with the best standards of the American diplomatic service. The truth is neither Mr. Kennedy nor Mr. Davies has added to his reputation as diplomat or statesman by his latest declaration. What the third-term cause, if other amateur Ambassadors follow suit, the result will be the same. For one thing none of these gentlemen control any delegates for another, they all hold jobs given them by Mr. Roosevelt, which most of them want either to hold on to or trade for something better. For another, they know that when Mr. Roosevelt retires they also retire. What the third-term managers

Finns Our Especial Pets

Now, we in the United States don't know so much about the Finns.

They're relatively few in this country. But they owed us some. World war debts that they've paid instalments on regularly, which no other country has done since the last world conflict. This has been advertised. Every semi-yearly date it's been noted that Finland has been cash-on-the-nail. And it's so now, even in the case of the Finn's current distressful period.

But we know about the Swedes and Norwegians. Our northwest is full of 'em. Their countries don't owe us any money in the first place.

They're second and third generations, certainly.

Yet they do have their sympathies.

Is there anything we can do about it?

want now are endorsements not from Federal jobholders, politicians afraid of income tax investigations or rubber-stamp Administration Senators, but from some one with a name that commands respect and a detached position which precludes any suspicion of selfish personal or political interest. A desperate search is being made for a man like that, but so far he hasn't been found. The other kind do not count very much.

Here's Preview Of Santa's Pack For Men Of Nation

(By JANE COCHRAN)
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Mister, a message to you, straight from the feedbag as we say in reindeerland.

Not for all the gifts in Santa Claus' pack would your correspondent violate the sanctity of Christmas secrecy, but for the husbands of the nation, the brothers, uncles, fathers and male cousins this must be told:

You may expect in your Christmas stocking—

Shirts—most probably.

Socks and ties—possibly.

Bedroom slippers—less probably.

Gloves—maybe.

A pipe—yes, don't shudder—a pipe.

In all probability, you'll get at least one shirt. Whether you wear it, exchange it or just hide it quietly away is up to you, but one-third of the men in this Christmas-conscious land are going to have new shirts on the morning of December 25th.

Advance Information

This advance information, men, is a tip from those best qualified to know. It was gathered in a survey made of gift purchases in department stores catering to New Yorkers and buyers all over the country.

So you'd best not invest in any socks or ties at the moment. Tie and sock counters are crowded with women selecting models such as only women can—(or do you know?)

There will be socks with garters—socks without garters—lisle socks in plaids, stripes and circles—wool, cotton and silk socks—subdued and screaming ones.

And ties—(or would you rather forget them for the present) in every color and pattern.

There's a gentlemen's agreement between department stores to advertise ties you'd pick yourself rather than ones to be picked up gingerly by the tail and deposited quickly in the darkest corner of the clothes closet.

Don't Get Too Hopeful

Don't get too hopeful. You can lay odds on getting at least one tie that will never again see the light of day.

Tall men will receive shirts with three-quarter length sleeves; small men will try on shirts with collars sized to fit a wrestler. Better work a figure casually into the conversation and then say in surprise:

"What a coincidence, that's just my collar size."

We're warning you.

If you're a white shirt addict, you're in luck. Over half the shirts sold are white but plenty of regimental stripes and the brightest and boldest plaids ever to emerge from Scotland will be done up in tinsel and ribbons.

Feet and hands are well taken care of by Santa and the sales graph in glove and slipper departments soars abruptly during December.

It's possible you might unwrap belts, suspenders, cuffers, a nice empty wallet, muffler, suede jacket, underwear, sweater or shaving equipment for the already overcrowded medicine chest.

If you're still feeling badly about the thoughts of receiving a pipe, ease your mind. It might not be the right shape but the pipe she gives you will be sweet.

The men behind the pipe counters are experts at convincing a woman to buy a good pipe. They want you to enjoy it and come back for renewals.

Among these items will be your Christmas gift. It's only fair that you should know—you're going to pay for it.

GROUNDHOG AT GASTON PARK NOW IN HIBERNATION

At last, the fourth groundhog in the animal house at Gaston Park, has fallen into the arms of Morpheus, and joined its companion in hibernation.

A few days ago, Owen Fox, while feeding the animals and birds, put an apple before the groundhog. The animal instinctively grabbed it, soon drowsiness overcame it, and with difficulty tried to eat it. As it was so near a state of coma, it dropped the apple, went into its home in the ground. Since that time the groundhog has not reappeared, and is doubtless hibernating for the winter.

Annual Banquet Of Universal Sanitary Manufacturing Co. Held Saturday

ADDRESS IS MADE BY KEITH M'AFEE

Several hundred persons attended the annual Christmas turkey banquet of the Universal Sanitary Manufacturing Co. Athletic association in Orr's hall, Saturday night. It was voted one of the best of the association's annual fetes.

George Lamoree was toastmaster. W. Keith McAfee, president of the company, delivered the principal address. McAfee said 1939 has been a good year for the company. "Most of the world is at war but thank God we're not in it and the longer it goes the less chance we have of getting into it," he asserted.

He termed the United States the only large neutral nation and said upon this country rests the future hope of civilization. The United States is the only democracy left today.

"We have freedom here and have had 150 years of independence. No one has successfully patterned after us and the United States is the only country where the bill of rights is working."

McAfee described how one could earn good wages and have luxuries in this country after which he said the United States should stay smart and not get sucked into the conflict. Clyde Whittaker spoke on citizenship and athletics. Clarence Clark, association president, spoke briefly as did Ray Carruthers, Dean Staley, Herbert Kirk and Jack Miller. George Findlay was applauded for the service during the turkey dinner.

During the evening music was furnished by Mike Piscarro's orchestra. Mike Turk sang several numbers. During the evening there was a floor show with Emil Lelenko as master of ceremonies which was pleasing.

The officers and committees were given praise for the fine banquet. The officers are: President, Clarence Clark; vice president, Joseph Malando; secretary, Lawrence Gibson and directors, Howard Houston, Charles Moore and Joe Fortuna.

Nothing definite was done in the way of naming candidates for any of the state offices to be filled but it is hoped that out of the Saturday meeting and others that will be called will come a program of harmony that will insure a united front in November.

The post office plans no evening service tonight but night service will be provided if crowds require it. Today the 6 o'clock closing hour will be observed.

(Copyright 1939, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

NO SYSTEM CAN FORETELL SEX OF UNBORN CHILD SAYS DAFOE

There never has been a system devised to ascertain definitely whether an unborn baby will be of one sex or the other. Neither is there a way to foretell the sex of a child before it is born.

I realize that what I have just said will bring a downpour of letters of disagreement to my office, telling me I am an old fogey who hasn't kept abreast of the times; that I am just like all medical men—refusing to recognize modern scientific discoveries. Nevertheless, I stick to what I say, and I think in this I will be backed up by most of the scientific doctors of the day. I suppose the most interesting problem in the world has always been, "Will it be a boy or a girl?" Even in the humblest home this question is to the fore when a baby is coming. In past centuries it has been a question that diplomats and governments have sought to ascertain. We have a recent example of the anxiety of a whole nation, The Netherlands, over the sex of an unborn child.

With so much interest revolving about such an event, it is unavoidable that certain superstitions should have grown up about it. In past centuries wealthy and titled people tried many experiments in order to insure the birth of a boy to carry on the family rule. Astrologers and magicians were called in to perform weird incantations over the prospective mother.

Some had it that the date of conception was all that mattered—that is, if the child was conceived at the full of the moon or in the first quarter, it would be of this sex or that. Then the weather was blamed; so were the stars and the tides. Most such theories rise for a time but when they are put to the test they fail.

I have said that such theories flourished in centuries past, but we have them today too. I know because I have encountered them in my own practice. For instance, in one little village it is believed the child will be a boy if the mother naturally and habitually uses her right hand when she is raising herself from a sitting position on the floor. If she uses her left hand, then the child is certain to be a girl. Other communities have the hands reversed in this superstition.

One time I had an elderly man come to my office and offer me a thousand dollars if I would make sure that his wife bore a son. The man was very proud of a long family line. He had married a woman many years younger than he was, and they had four girls. The man would have done almost anything to have a son. I told him that there was nothing I or anyone else could do to make sure he had a son. The man was very angry and didn't believe me. He even accused me of holding out for more money. Some months later, when his wife was confined, he was still angry with me, so he employed another doctor from a neighboring town. Perhaps it was fortunate for my reputation in the community that when the baby came it was a girl.

Garner To Combat Third Term Drive Of President

Vice President New Candidate

Garner Tosses Sombroso
Into Democratic Arena
Over Week-End

MEANS BATTLE ON THIRD TERM

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—The New Deal third term drive in behalf of President Roosevelt today faced the open opposition of his running-mate, Vice President John Nance Garner, now an unconditional candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1940.

Over the week-end, Garner tossed his Texas sombrero into the Democratic arena in a formal statement, he said:

"I will accept the nomination for President. I will make no effort to control any delegates. The people should decide. A candidate should be selected at primaries and conventions as provided by law, and I sincerely trust that all Democrats will participate in them."

Will Fight Third Term
The major effect of the announcement was to serve notice on the President and his intimates that Garner will fight the third term issue in and out of the 1940 convention. This could have been no surprise to Mr. Roosevelt, as he long has known of Garner's attitude toward the third term tradition. The Texas friends say he disclosed his sentiments to the President in a historic talk at the White House late in December of 1938. The Texas was quoted as having told the President that "there is one more good fight in me if you seek a third term. It was only a little while after that, that the New Dealers began their ill-fated and unsuccessful campaign to 'smear Garner' a campaign that later developed into a 'Stop Garner' drive which in turn eventuated into the third term movement."

Major Andrus Pleased With Troop K Situation

For the second time since his assignment to the 103rd Cavalry as inspector-instructor, Major B. C. Andrus of the United States Army visited Troop K, inspected the armory and later gave some instruction in methods at the armory.

Major Andrus is delighted with the armory and was complimentary in his remarks concerning its appearance and the manner in which it is being maintained. As to the troop personnel he was satisfied with the progress being made and with the type of men in the troop save for the fact that there is need for a number of enlistments to bring the troop to peace time strength.

"We believe it is important to maintain all national guard units at strength," said the major. "Not because of any war scare but only as a matter of sensible insurance against any time when it might be necessary for the United States to call men to the colors."

"Service in the national guard today offers so many advantages to young men of character that it seems to me there will be little difficulty in putting Troop K at peace time strength. The privilege of riding good horses is in itself an advantage that civilians pay much for in riding academies. In addition a young man is taught how to care for horses, how to shoot, how to maintain himself in the field, in short, service in the national guard develops character, initiative and self reliance."

"Our government is interested in seeing more young men of character enlist in the national guard in order that we may have a potential reservoir of officer material in time of need. Any young man joining the guard should be of the type who some day can be commissioned as an officer."

"Here in New Castle I find the civilian population most responsive to the guard and its problems. The armory is a fine modern building, your terrain in this county is ideal for riding and also for training problems. I am confident that we shall soon have the troop up to peace strength."

"The sponsor committee has done a magnificent piece of work for Troop K. Their work is an example of what the government wants in every city where a national guard unit is maintained. Without the cooperation of the sponsor committee in New Castle you would not have had as good a troop as you have and perhaps might not have had an armory."

"The idea of a junior troop has many possibilities. At the armory Friday night a number of boys presented themselves for enlistment but unfortunately most of them were too young. I trust they will keep the matter in mind and when their age permits their enlistment that they will come in."

Major Andrus is a veteran of the United States Army, has served in many parts of the world with the colors and has a son in West Point. He has been assigned to the 103rd Cavalry with headquarters at Tyrona and will make periodic visits to New Castle.

The county commissioners have purchased a new station wagon, which can be used for hauling election supplies and other work, in addition to being a mode of conveyance for the commissioners in their work.

Motion for a new trial has been made in the case of the commonwealth against Paul Zarilla, who was convicted on a morals charge at the recent term of court. It is alleged that the verdict was against the weight of the evidence. The court directed that the notes of testimony be written out and fifteen days is given for the filing of additional reasons for a new trial.

When County Treasurer V. I. Mandich opened what he supposed was his supplies for the issuance of dog licenses, he found the blanks, but no tags, and for that reason he cannot issue the licenses until the tags are received. It is said that the tags are being made in the Western penitentiary. Quite a number of people had sent checks to the county treasurer for their tags. The checks will be held and the licenses will be issued as soon as the tags are received.

M. P. Sarko, enforcement officer for the Pennsylvania Liquor Control board, presented a petition to court for the confiscation of some beer and whiskey found to be illegally in the possession of Mary Jeannette of Ellwood City. A rule was issued on Mrs. Jeannette to show the cause why the liquor should not be destroyed.

William Jayne, who was sentenced six months to the county jail on September 11 for an attempted burglary, has presented a petition for parole and the case will be heard on December 30. In his petition Jayne says: "I have been working in the kitchen of the county jail."

and the punishment I have received is sufficient atonement for the offense committed."

County Commissioners, sitting as a Board of Appeals, is hearing New Wilmington and Enon boroughs today. Tomorrow South New Castle, Volant and Wampum boroughs will be heard. This will complete the hearings until January 3rd, when Ellwood City borough will be taken up. There is considerable complaint against the assessments which have been made in Ellwood City borough past years, and it is expected that the revision board will go into the matter very carefully to determine whether or not there is just grounds for the complaints.

Hearing on the seventh ward election matter over the election of a county assessor will be held on next Wednesday. At the recent election Peter F. Cardella, was the regular candidate on the Democratic ticket and Nick Cangey on the Republican. E. J. Waller, the present incumbent, was not on the ticket, but his friends voted for him by writing in his name and by means of stickers. When the election board made the count the two high men were E. J. Waller with 494 votes and Peter F. Cardella with 492. This gave the office to Waller, but when the official count was made the board threw out some 23 votes, which gave it to Cardella. The reason the votes were thrown out was that not all the voters had written Waller's first name correctly. Waller claims that there was no question but that it was the intention of the electors to vote for him, and he believes that he was legally elected.

Persons who violate their paroles are not entitled to much leniency of the court in the opinion of Judge W. Walter Braham. In sentencing a prisoner who had violated his parole Saturday, Judge Braham told him that the object of the parole was to give the accused an opportunity to go straight. It is a gesture toward helping the individual to become better citizens. In paroling a prisoner the court shows confidence in his manhood, and when the individual commits other offenses while on parole that confidence is betrayed. Such persons cannot hope for much mercy from the court.

Hospital Guild Of Material Aid

Junior Guild Composed Of Fifty Nine Young Women
Who Are Active

Another worthwhile piece of work has been completed by the Junior Guild of the James Memorial hospital and on December 20 will be ready for public inspection. The work is that of the redecoration of the sun rooms on the third and fourth floors and visitors to the hospital are urged to look in and see the improvement in the rooms mentioned.

The Junior Guild has been an active force in the hospital affairs for a number of years. Composed of fifty-nine young women, it has provided a host of garments for the hospital, provided funds for materials needed and has been responsible for a lot of other good work. Funds are raised by an annual charity ball, and monthly the young women hold bridge parties, the proceeds of which go towards the purchase of needed things. In addition, regular sewing bees are held which provide garments used in the hospital.

Stanford Fires 'Tiny' Thornhill

Former Pitt Grid Star Many Years At Stanford Is Finally Dismissed

NEED MATERIAL THORNHILL SAYS

By RALPH B. JORDAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PALO ALTO, Cal., Dec. 15.—This is the strange story of the man who debunked football and lost his head, not unlike another great and unappreciated figure in history.

Not that Claude E. (Tiny) Thornhill ever would think of himself as an historical character. He's just a gruff giant who took the hocus-focus out of the grid game but, sorry to relate, got his rooper under the guillotine, which fell when the Stanford university board of athletic control voted not to renew his contract when it expires next April 1.

Must Have Material

Among Tiny's other startling and unorthodox contentions, a heresy so bold that he could have been tossed out of the football coaches' union with nary a dissenting vote, was this:

"If you get the boys who can carry the mail, you can win the old ball game, and if you haven't, you'll get bopped. All this masterminding from the bench is so much phooey."

We'll, Tiny proved that, with the "vow boys", and when he ran out of "vow boys", he ran out of jobs. "Vow boys" are good football players, Stanford brand. When he had 'em, tiny couldn't be beaten, and when he didn't have 'em, like this past season, everybody beat him. That's how he proved that point.

Tiny, the great debunker, made one cardinal mistake. He just taught football—and he knows as much football and can teach it as well as any coach in the country—instead of going out and getting himself some more "vow boys" who could play it.

The second game will find the St. Vitus meeting the St. Marys team. The third game will have the First Methodist meeting the Second U. P. quintet.

Nelson Attends WPIAL Meeting

Norman Nelson, faculty manager of Senior High was in Pittsburgh on Saturday and attended a meeting of the WPIAL at the Fifth Avenue High school along with principals, faculty managers and coaches of District 7 for the purpose of voting on four amendments to the P.I.A.A. constitution regarding eligibility.

Nelson voted no on the first amendment regarding the changing of the age limit from 20 to 19, and voted yes on the other two amendments—one limiting of any player to eight semesters beyond the eighth grade and clarification of the manner of determining the age of players.

There was not a majority of the 160 schools of the district at the meeting and the final vote will have to be made at a later date, most of the schools preferring to send their ballots in by mail.

Three Section 20 Games On Tuesday

Section 20 cage teams swing into action again Tuesday night.

Bessemer plays its initial league fracas, entertaining Wampum; Shenango goes to Union Township, and New Wilmington invades Mt. Jackson high.

Westminster Basketball Squad

TITAN FLOOR PLAYERS FOR 1940 SEASON.

NEW WILMINGTON, Dec. 18.—From these 21 Westminster Titan cagers, Coach Grover C. Washbaugh expects to draw a better-than-par Blue and White cage team for the 1939-40 season.

With excellent freshman material, the Titans will be dominantly a freshman-sophomore team, with the exception of Captain Mel Miller, Guard Joe Hetra, seniors, and Tom Patton, Junior.

Toughest opposition for the Blue and White this year will come from such teams as Long Island University, Pitt, Tech, Waynesburg, and Washington and Jefferson. The Titans open their season, January 4, against Tech in Pittsburgh.

Oil City; Dick Fawcett, Chester; Bob Washbaugh, New Wilmington; John Mercer, New Wilmington; Norman Rose, senior manager, Tarentum.

Top row: Frank Hetra, Farrell; Russell Yellig, Pittsburgh; Dale Dunmire, Vandergriff; Frank O'Hara, Ford City; Romane Andrews, Mt. Lebanon; William Meekling, Indianapolis, Ind.; and Clyde Houston, Titusville.

The following are asked to report, Joe Cooper, Andy Sugent, Scott Morrison, Greek Stevenson, Harry Toccato, Sammy Deep, Joe Deep, Elmer Wainio, Tommy Strausbaugh, and any others who wish to play with the Keys this year.

Sports World Ramblings

Local Tidbits: New Wilmington High's scorer is happy because there is but one Paul Minner on the team. The elongated athlete, who is sweet sixteen and never keeps the scorer busy. His pet hobby is flipping the sphere through the mesh. It isn't even Christmas and the southpaw pitching star is making the cords sing a merry tune. The youth has scored 70 points in four games—close to 17 per tilt. If this is an example of what to expect, wait until the season starts...

Is a pigskin a pigskin?—Sports writers and radio announcers are being duped. Larry F. Livingston, a famous research engineer, says men of the typewriter profession, and announcers, have been calling a football a pigskin. The ball is made from vegetable oil and cellulose and is far tougher than the hide of any prize porker. Livingston claims. The monicker will likely stick despite the revelation. Some way down the line, footballs were (maybe are) made out of pork hide—thus the name pigskin...

WIN TWO GAMES

Over the week end the Gus Little Five won two basketball games, beating the Croton Reserves on Saturday morning at the Arena court 27 to 10, and on Sunday downing the Mooners 34 to 32 at the Arena court in an over-time battle.

Sharon To Play Here Tuesday

Mercer County Boys Will Try Hard To Upset Locals On Hardwood Court

FINAL PRE LEAGUE GAME ON HOME FLOOR

New Castle High school basketball team will play the Sharon high team at the Washington high floor on Tuesday night in the final home game of the pre-league season. The preliminary games featuring the Sharon High Reserves and New Castle Reserves, will start at 7 o'clock.

The Sharon High team will come here with a strong lineup and will try hard to trip the locals and get back a little revenge for the football defeat suffered last Thanksgiving, and also the year before in football. Sharon High defeated New Castle in basketball last year at Sharon.

Usual Lineup

Coach Phil Bredenbaugh will start his usual lineup with Gennock at one forward, either Wall or Adamo at the other forward, Bombyk at center and Lauro and Cowden at the guards.

Following the Sharon game the New Castle team will be idle until Wednesday night, December 27, when they will play a return game at the Ford City high floor.
